OREGON NEEDS ADVERTISING

JOHN S. PINNEY TELLS OF CONDITIONS IN THE EAST.

Everybody Has Heard of California, But No One Knows of Oregon—California is Advertised Everywhere, But Oregon is Unheard of—Pendleton Indian Robes the Only Oregon Product Seen in the East—Crying Need for Oregon Literature.

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 16.—(Editor East Oregonian.)—On May 15 last, I left Oregon to make my business home in New York. I determined, on starting, to learn to what extent Oregon is known in that section of the United States called "the East," and the result of my investigations is here stated:

During five months I have traveled about 5000 miles. I have visited Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago twice, Detroit, Cleveland, Indianapolis twice, Pittsburgh twice, Philadelphia three times, Buffalo, Albany, and the distance from New York to Chicago has been covered three times. I have also spent many days in New York city, and in the large cities near New York. During all of this traveling I have enjoyed conversation with a great many business men and fellow travelers.

To my statement that I came from the Pacific coast, they have all replied, invariably and instantly, "Oh, yes, from California." I counted the number of times that reply was made during the first three months after leaving Oregon, and the number was 1233.

Since then I have not continued the count, but I have been surprised and pained that not a single one of the thousands of Eastern men I have met and conversed with, appeared to know that Oregon was on the map, but every one instantly said: "Oh, yes, from California," when I mentioned the Pacific coast.

California Widely Advertised.

Lately I have been investigating the "why" of this seeming lack of Oregon's existence. Here, again, is the result: I find California literature everywhere. Railroad advertising, land company booklets, city souvenirs, fruit statistics, and the fruits themselves, but nothing from Oregon, or almost nothing.

I have diligently hunted through many daily papers looking for Lewis and Clark fair advertising, or news, or any information, and with a single exception, and then for only one Sunday issue of the Newark, N. J., News, have I been able to find a line or even a word about the fair.

Oregon Fruits Not Known.

I have visited several of the largest groceries in Newark, 250,000 population, also in Elizabeth, 80,000 population; Jersey City, 300,000 population; New York about 3,000,000, looking for Oregon prunes and other Oregon fruits, and the invariable and unhesitating reply has been that they never heard of Oregon prunes.

I have, however, ordered eight boxes from a friend in Oregon and they will be placed on the tables of eight well known men living in New York and New Jersey, for I am determined that SOMEONE within my circle of business and personal friends must be able to say that "they" have heard of Oregon prunes, and have tasted them and found them good.

Pendleton Blankets Known.

I have still further pursued my investigations relative to Oregon products in the East. My latest effort has been to discover, if possible, some of the excellent products of that great state advertised in the Eastern magazines and other high class publications, such as the Ladies' Home Journal, Saturday Evening Post, and others.

I have found one glorious, conspicuous exception to the discouragingly monotonous failure, and this shining example is the Pendleton Woolen Mills, with their well constructed, beautiful advertisement for the Oregon Indian robes manufactured at Pendleton.

Hurrah for Pendleton and her enterprising woolen mill and the Indian robes! I have found two of the robes in families living on Staten Island and in Jersey City, and I felt like shaking hands with old friends from my beloved Oregon. (I sent both robes East myself to these families for Christmas presents some years ago. I wish it were possible to send more of them, not especially to just make presents, but to let more families back here know of at least one Oregon product.

What's the Matter With Oregon?

But what's the matter with Oregon, anyway? Why have thousands of well-posted, bright business men in nine of the largest and most wealthy Eastern states said to me, "Oh, yes, from California." Why is there no advertising of the Lewis and Clark fair. Why cannot Oregon products be found in the big Eastern stores? Why does nobody know of the wonderful Oregon? Not because she is so far away. That isn't a good reason. California is just as far, but everybody knows of California.

At the St. Louis fair your neighboring state of Washington distributed 100,000 magnificent souvenir books, not cheap stuff, but a beautiful book that any one would take home and read and look at many times and ponder over. How many did Oregon distribute at the St. Louis fair? Today I received a folder done in most artistic effect advertising the Spokane fair this fall. And I have just learned that thousands of these folders have been mailed broadcast by Spokane merchants.

I tell you, friends, it's mighty hard work to holler for Oregon, as I am doing, and as I delight in doing, when every man you meet says, "Oh, yes, from California," and when one sees California booklets, fruits, railroad advertising, land advertising, everywhere, but never a word of Oregon.

Saves Two From Death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland of Armonk, N. Y., "but, when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and today she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for coughs and colds. 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by Tallman & Co. Trial bottles free.

Weidemann Closes Engagement. The Weidemanns closed a two-nights' engagement at the Fraser last evening. The company will return to Pendleton the latter part of next month and play four nights. The performance last night was comedy, pure and simple, interspersed with vaudeville numbers. The attendance was large and the show was well received.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Harpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it eats the vitality, causing itching, scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Harpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
